NetApp HCI End User Compute and Virtual Desktop Infrastructure Solutions

The “work from home” or mobile workforce requirement has become the new reality for nearly every company in the world. NetApp HCI End User Compute solutions deliver Virtual Desktop Infrastructures (VDI) solutions that address the needs of performance at scale, cost efficient provisioning and much more.

Conventional HCI is designed to provision compute and storage together but efficient VDI configurations require unbalanced compute/storage node ratios. Architectural limitations for a balance of compute and storage resources creates cost impacts that are subtle until demand increases and resources scale.

With NetApp HCI EUC/VDI Sales and Partner Kits you can discover more about use cases and solution values such as:
